UPTOWN GIRL

A clever and that much more formal manipulation of the Sainted Sister Blusher Veil becomes the signature of this look. “It’s super simple,” said Moiz, “but packs all the punch of a well-groomed society gal.” He started by combing the hair straight back into a low ponytail. Securing this with a hair band, he then began to tease the pony and twist it tightly into a chignon. Here’s where the veil comes in: to complete the look, he fastened the comb above the chignon, folded a layer of tulle down and over it, and then pinned the tulle into place.
